Continuous Assessment
Assessment Type	Assessment Description	Outcome addressed	% of total	Assessment Date
Project	Learners will engage with both academic and industry materials in the course of their studies and will be required to complete a project demonstrating achievement of the learning outcomes. This project will typically require learners to identify the application of key consumer psychology & behaviour concepts in marketing practice, and to reference both academic and industry sources. The project may be team based but will also include an individual module learning reflection. Formative feedback will be provided on draft submissions at key stages of the assessment process. Example projects may include: persona development; customer journey mapping; researching customer decision making.	1,2,3	100.00	Sem 1 End
